Bryan has declared for the government ownership of railroads. Hill says Bryan is silly. "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

The News has put Parker's name at the head of its editorial column. The medicine is not pleasant but Clay can take about anything that has democracy blown in the bottle.

The Humboldt Leader is preaching the advisability of employing competent legal counsel for the city of Humboldt. It seems that someone made a serious mistake in the preparation for a bond election in Humboldt, and the Leader man desires to avoid similar errors in the future by the employment of a lawyer.

Mr. Burgess of Lincoln, the chairman of the state committee has located the state headquarters at the Murray hotel in Omaha. He has appointed an executive committee composed of excellent men to assist in the active work of the campaign. The aggressive manner in which he is pushing the preliminaries of the campaign is very pleasing to the rank and file and augurs well for the ices of November.

Joseph Folk, the persistent and able district attorney of St. Louis has been nominated by the democrats for governor of Missouri. His work of prosecuting boodlers is not completed, but he seems to think that his field of usefulness would be larger in a state that has gone democratic so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

The standard oil trust has never been long on publicity. Mr. Rockefeller has built his business on secrecy. Anti-publicity is the creed of his corporation. He will not retain the most insignificant of employees if he talks about the business of the concern. Mr. Rockefeller was appointed a member of the campaign committee of the Union League club of New York, a republican organization. He emphatically and insolently declined to serve. The Standard oil trust has a candidate for president but his name is not Roosevelt.

E. A. Tucker will be the next state senator from the big first. He is entitled to the vote of every true republican in this county. Mr. Tucker has always been a consistent, hard working republican. There is scarcely a school district in this section that has not felt the influence of his labor and his loyalty. He has nothing in common with bolters nor their creed, and no man has uttered more scathing denunciations of this clan. Because of this he has endeared himself to every man who puts principle above pelf, and is justly entitled to the vote of those men who have fought the battles of the party in all seasons.

Horses are a good price now, and in all probability will continue so for many years. Take care of that colt. He is to be your servant some day, to do your bidding in the daily grind of life. Teach him that he has a kind master and preserve his strength for the years of his labor. Don't take him to the field with his mother and force him to walk up and down the field all day. Is it any wonder the little fellow grows tired and gets in front of his mother to induce her to stop? Keep him in the lot and let his days be playful days. Turn him out with a playmate if possible. Bring his mother in for a drink, say at ten o'clock in the morning and give the colt a pull at the fountain of life. In all things treat him with the consideration his future usefulness will warrant and he will be an asset and not a liability.

The Nemaha County Herald in speaking of the big drainage convention held in Brock says; The convention was fortunate in having R. E. Grinstead of Salem, Richardson county, present. He is a practical engineer and has devoted considerable time to the study of the drainage problem as presented in the streams of this section. He made a thorough and exhaustive description of the methods that should be pursued, described the most feasible methods and gave an idea of the cost. He was listened to with great attention and was questioned closely by a number of the delegates. Before its adjournment the meeting extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Grinstead for the valuable information that he imparted and for the nature of the service rendered."

The democratic platform possesses its usual adaptability. It means anything or nothing as the occasion requires. Its anti-trust plank was written by a trust magnate and will be construed by the trust candidate. It is a platform about which the national committee says Mr. Bryan may talk in the west but not in the east and Dave Hill may construe in the east but not in the west. It is made to catch 'em going and coming. It means one thing today, it meant another thing yesterday and will mean nothing tomorrow. It was constructed to get in on, and not to stand on. It deserves and is receiving the condemnation of honest electors, and will be shot so full of holes before election that its progenitors will not recognize their offspring.

There is a strong probability that national chairman Cortelyou will chose R. B. Schneider of Fremont as a member of his executive committee. Should this appointment be made it will be a great compliment not only to Mr. Schneider but to the state as well. It is unusual to make up the executive committee outside of the National committee. All the newspaper talk about such an appointment being an affront to the committeeman from Nebraska is utter nonsense. Mr. Morrill is a smaller man than we think if he objects to the honor coming to the state.

Rumor has it that the Auburn Post is about to go into the hands of a stock company. It is to be hoped that this rumor is true. Not only the paper, but its editorial policy has been on the bargain counter so long, that it will be a welcome relief to see the paper in the hands of men who will conduct it in a legitimate way.

After the commercial club fixes the roads, let's all get together to offer sufficient inducements to have the farming community use them.

E. A. Tucker will probably canvass both counties in his district very thoroughly. Mr. Tucker is an interesting talker and will stir up enthusiasm to the limit when he takes the stump.

Parker may be a good judge as his advocates claim. That he would make a good juror we all admit; he has neither formed nor expressed an opinion on any question of governmental policy.

R. E. Grinstead would make a representative of whom the people of this county would be very proud. His enemies acknowledge and respect his ability and the party feels that his nomination was one of the wisest acts of the late county convention.

The opposition to W. H. Hogrefe is about to give up the struggle. The republican party possesses no man more distinctly fitted for the position to which he aspires. No man can urge one valid reason why he should not be elected. Mr. Hogrefe is a staunch Burkett man, and his past record shows that the interest of all the people is his sole guide of official conduct.

George Smith will not find it necessary to make much of an effort to be elected. He is so well and favorably known that a personal canvass would add but little to his popularity. However, he will be in the field bearing his full share of the burdens and adding the weight of his influence towards the triumphant victory which will be achieved by the republican party next November.
